Experience

Mr. McTague has been a project manager and designer responsible for the design and preparation of documents for commercial, institutional and residential projects. His past professional experience included the New York City, Philadelphia and Pocono Mountains markets. He has a wide variety of experience in commercial, municipal, institutional, healthcare, hospitality, historic renovation, and residential projects. He is experienced in programming, cost estimates and working with contractors and construction managers through the bidding and construction processes. He is extremely well versed in programming standards for commercial and municipal projects. His experience also includes consulting contractors in a design build capacity by designing large and small-scale residential additions for private residences and historic homes throughout the Lehigh Valley. He has worked with clients and contractors to solve design, construction and zoning issues and has experience working with Historic Architectural Review Boards. Roger was a 10 year faculty member at Northampton Community College within the Architecture and Interior Design programs and served as a member of the Architectural Department Advisory Committee.
